New Myths

MORGENTHAU

A month ago, Sen. J. William Fulbright in a major Senate speech exhorted the nation to think the "unthinkable" about U.S. foreign policy in an effort to close the gap between "fact and perception." In this thoughtful appraisal, the distinguished J. Hans Morgenthau challenges the senator's major premise and offers a provocative critique of U.S. foreign policies. Morgenthau, who is the Albert A. Michelson distinguished service professor of political science and modern history at the University of Chicago, wrote the article for Commentary. It appears here by special arrangement with the editors of that journal.
